Press Kit

Eleven, Inc. owns and operates www.babyhomepages.net, which was born in 2001, we have invested our time into continuing to evolve BabyHomePages.net into the most comprehensive user created website forum on the net with our focus being on children. Our emphasis is on ease of use so that anyone can develop and moderate a personal website. Our 2008 business plan incorporates vamping our user community with message boards and a newsletter. In addition, we are proud to be a green friendly company. Our marketing is generated towards link management, user referrals, partnerships, affiliate programs and image.

One family's project to start an online journal to share pictures and stories about our son with loved ones has quickly developed into an online community. The BabyHomePages.net family currently has 15,000 members residing in over eight countries and counting. We are quickly becoming one of the web's premier online communities for creating websites for children.

Our mission is to create a fast and easy way for parents and children to share pictures and personal content by creating their own unique website. We have created a platform for parents, with the help of their children, or even those "small adults" themselves to share memories with friends and families. This creates the opportunity for children to establish a website that is uniquely their own, all done in a safe environment. Our online community is user generated and we strive to keep it that way!
